

YES, I am for it as more and more broadband is made available by cable tv companies & telephone companies, and as fibreoptics is much readily available with new technology and more effective, the only question is will it create interference in adjacent old copper phone lines, as BPL is creating such interference now.